ACADEMIC PROJECTS

Loan Default Prediction Using Logistic Regression

- Developed a binary classification model for predicting the loan eligibility using Logistic Regression
- R packages were employed to carry out data exploration, cleaning, selection of key data features and building the predictive model.

Telecommunications Data Analysis using Spark GraphX

- Built a Graph of stations and their interaction strength using Spark GraphX application to analyze the interaction patterns inside the City of Milan.
- Implemented various techniques like Page Rank, Aggregated Messages and graph operations to identify key stations and interaction patterns.

Comparison of Prim's and Kruskal's Algorithm in Graph Structures

- Developed a Java application to compare Prim's and Kruskal's algorithms for finding minimum spanning trees in graph structures.
- Employs Union-Find in Kruskal's and Minimum Heap in Prim's to identify MST's.

Energy Auditing

- Successfully lead project team for Energy Auditing of university campus using extensive field research and data analytics.
- Analyzed and identified key features that governed power consumption patterns using MATLAB for devising ways to improve energy efficiency.
- Successfully presented a final thesis that put forth measures to improve energy efficiency by 21 percent in future years.

AWARDS AND RECOGNITIONS

- Second prize in TCS – American Express Hackathon, Tata Consultancy Services – February 2016.
